

EMS Providers in Europe

Your company is offering Electronics Manufacturing Services (EMS)? With an entry in this directory, you can address potential customers with minimal effort. With the help of diverse search and selection criteria, electronics companies can quickly and easily find the ideal manufacturing partner for their respective project on this website. The site attracts already more than 700 unique visitors per month. Around 60% of these come from Europe. This website is therefore an ideal way to support your sales and marketing activities.

One among many

According to our estimates, there are more than 2000 companies in Europe offering electronics manufacturing services. In order for potential prospects to become aware of your company, it is not enough for you to provide the required services in high quality. Many others can do that too.

You also need to proactively bring your company to the fore. How do you do that? Quite simply, with an extended company entry or banner advertising on this website. This allows you to put your company at the top of the search results, highlight important strengths and competences or visually draw attention to your company with the logo or an advertising banner.

Company entry

Company entries are only possible for companies that offer electronics manufacturing services in Europe and have one or more manufacturing locations here.

The basic entry in the provider directory is free of charge and already includes a lot of information. In addition to this free entry, we offer various options with which you can make it easier to contact your company and differentiate your presentation from the other entries. With a paid extension, you can make your company stand out from the crowd and significantly increase the chance of being found. In addition, we also offer conventional banner advertising (see below).

- The banner included in the PLUS and TOP entry is displayed several thousand times a year
- Particular specializations and competences can be described in detail and are thus found more easily
- Potential new customers have direct access via the contact details to your sales department

While company entries are only available to electronics manufacturing service providers from Europe who also have at least one or more manufacturing sites in the area, banner advertising is open to all companies.
